

Leanne McIntosh has published two books of poetry: The Sound the Sun Makes and Liminal Space. Her poems have been included in literary journals, anthologies and a series of chapbooks edited by Patrick Lane. She is active in local poetry events and volunteers poetry sessions at the Nanaimo Brain Injury Society. She was born in Regina, SK, and has made Nanaimo, BC, home for forty-three years.

Leanne McIntosh and Jack Sproule at Bethlehem Retreat Centre, Nanaimo, February 21, 2012.

Photo: Lucia Gamroth

Jack Sproule is a retired Roman Catholic priest. He taught in seminaries in Canada and the United States. Following his teaching career he worked in parishes in Montreal, Nanaimo and Sidney. During his thirty-three years on Vancouver Island he has been closely associated with The Haven Institute on Gabriola Island. He currently resides in Nanaimo, BC.

Jock McKeen is a physician, author, poet and teacher, who founded the Haven Institute with his partner Bennet Wong. He is a longtime friend and collaborator with Leanne McIntosh and Jack Sproule.